June 2024

Title: BIM for Core Commercial Door Product Range Now Available from Hörmann

In early June 2024, Hörmann North America announced that BIM files are now available for their core commercial door product range. The files are available on Hörmann's website www.hormann.us under the Commercial tab, then within each specific product page. BIM for the high-performance door product line has been available since 2016. Now, architects and designers can access BIM files from one source for both high-performance and commercial doors, making it easy to specify both types of doors for the same project.
